Read what Thomas says and answer the questions.

Thomas

Yesterday the teacher asked us some questions about something she had given us to prepare the day before. I hadn't studied much and, when it was my turn to answer, I started stuttering. I didn't know what to say and my legs were shaking. The teacher kept asking me and I didn't know any of the answers. My hands were sweating really badly. In the end the teacher told me that I should've studied more. At that point I started giggling. I don't know why.

- How does Thomas feel? Tick the correct answer.
 He's frightened. He's nervous. He's having fun.
- In the text, underline all the symptoms of Thomas's nervousness.
